

HOW TO PLAY "SWITCH"

"Switch" is an engaging and active game that can be played indoors or outdoors, making it a perfect choice for groups of children looking to have fun and stay active.

Number of Players: suitable for a group of 5 players.

Setting Up:

- So before we begin you need a four-square court and if you don't have that use chalk to draw a big square, with enough space for everyone to move around comfortably.
- Choose one player to be the first or "caller".

How to Play:

- Players stand in 4 corners of a square.
- The "caller" stands in the center of the square and calls out "Switch!".
- All players, including the "caller", must quickly move to a different corner of the square.
- The goal for the players is to find an empty spot before someone else takes it. Since the leader is also looking for a spot, one player will inevitably be left without a spot to stand in.

The player who is left without a spot becomes the "caller" and stands in the center. The new leader calls out "Switch!" and the process repeats.

Rules:

Players cannot hold or reserve spots for themselves or others.
Players should not push or shove others while switching spots.
